He demanded the release of Eugene V. Debs from Atlanta, saying he was very ill. John L. Jones, an English labor organizer, also spoke.

The Socialist Labor party held a meeting at Cooper Union without so much as being noticed by the police. John P. Quinn, their candidate for Governor, was the chief speaker. He not only suggested that Attorney General Palmer was "seeing things" but spoke feelingly of "Palmer and his gang of reactionaries." The audience was not a large one, the hall being but half full.

The Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America was not orthodex in its manner of celebrating May Day, dispensing with a meeting and arranging a concert in Carnegie Hall, the music for which was provided by Arnold Volpe and his symphony orchestra. Books and pamphlets were sold, but there were no disturbances and so the policemen and agents of the Department of Justice, who were present in great numbers, had nothing to do but enjoy the music.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—Up to late to-night Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer's predictions as to May Day assansinations, riots and general strikes had failed to materialize.

Contrary to the Attorney General's warning of last Thursday night as to what would probably happen, the communications section of the department's bureau of investigation up to the time the department closed for the day had received no report of an attempt on the life of a Federal or state official Strike proclamation of the central exceutive committee of the Communist Party of America.

No other city was heard from. Officials of the Department of Justice, however, are none the less satisfied that the warnings were justified and that the wholesale assansinations and other outrages, as warned of by Mr. Palmer, had been actually planned. Thursday night's warning stated the department had received information that the Reds had marked more than a score of officials of the Federal and state governments in various parts of the country for murderous attacks.

Palmer Credited for Prevention have taken place. Credit for their frustration was also laid to the Attorney General for having warned the various state and municipal authorities given this place of honor without a fist their guard, and for having directed agents of the department to take extraordinary precautions against the cheduled outrages.

On the other hand, these officials called attention to the day's serious occurrences in France, England and other European countries where May Day at strikes and rioting took place, and sated that official reports received by the department from Europe fully confirmed the newspaper accounts of these happenings. Just what has happened in Europe to-day, officers of the department declared, had been planned by the Reds for the United States in accordance with the general strike call of the Communist international convention in Amsterdam in February.
